ALIGN YOUR BUSINESS APPLICATIONS AND TECHNOLOGY

In the business world, change is inevitable. Today's competitive business climate forces companies to maintain business and technology excellence and react more quickly than ever. To do so, it is critical to review your business applications and technology to determine if your organization is on track to effectively meet its objectives. You also need a comprehensive plan to drive processes.

LEADERSHIP DRIVES SUCCESS

The centerpiece of a successful project is project management. This entails developing a project plan with goals, tasks, budgets and timelines, then identifying and assigning the resources that are needed. It also includes implementing the project plan and effectively managing risks.

nexDimension's project management expertise focuses on the overall planning, coordination and managing of a project from inception to completion. At nexDimension, we meet your business requirements and ensure that completion is on time, within cost and to required quality standards.

OUR PEOPLE SET US APART

Your business depends on getting projects done right, on time and on budget. When you partner with nexDimension you are partnering with a trusted business advisor. We pride ourselves on knowing our clients and our extensive knowledge of the technology we recommend. Our staff includes financial, business and technology experts, including CPAs, former CFOs and controllers, computer specialists, software developers, and implementation consultants. Every member of the nexDimension team is dedicated to providing the depth and quality of service to meet your needs.

SITUATIONAL ASSESSMENT

We begin by examining all aspects of your business—from identifying corporate challenges and analyzing business processes to assessing how you make use of current technology. We get a better appreciation of your business by understanding its workflow, data and transaction cycles. We ask the right questions. Through in-depth research and analysis, we provide insight and strategic recommendations for your organization to enhance operating effectiveness, gain competitive advantage, improve the bottom line and build a solid foundation for growth.

PURCHASE ASSISTANCE

Once the situational analysis has been completed and a clear path determined, nexDimension assists you with the selection and/or purchase of the solution that meets your specific needs. As business and technology experts, we either guide you through or manage the entire purchasing process. This includes:

Selecting Business Applications

We focus on applications that will meet your operational requirements and maximize your organization's competitive advantage.

Managing the "Request For" Process

Procuring software and implementation services can be a complex process. nexDimension manages the steps required to make an objective, sensible and realistic purchase.

Negotiating Contracts

nexDimension facilitates contract negotiations between end-user organizations and software providers. We also evaluate and recommend software maintenance, technical support plans and required hardware.

CRITICAL IMPLEMENTATION SERVICES

The maximum long-term return on investment for a technology project is obtained by achieving the vision of the overall project – that is, to effectively deploy and integrate systems and then promulgate the data. nexDimension ensures that your project vision is not diluted during the implementation process.

Application and Data Integration

nexDimension has the technical expertise to design, create and maintain links between multiple systems and data sources in multiple databases, ultimately providing users with a unified view of their data.

Data Conversion and Migration

nexDimension assists organizations in devising a cost-effective data conversion plan as well as converting data from source systems when companies change or upgrade to new systems.

Application Development

Not all software applications can address unique, specific company situations. When the need arises, nexDimension designs and creates custom functionality to address gaps in applications.

Business Intelligence Capabilities

The promise of business intelligence revolves around providing employees with the right information at the right time to accomplish a specific goal. nexDimension can deliver access to critical, time-sensitive information to everyone in your organization via "custom reports," "dashboards and scorecards" and "business alerts".
